EN116

Prerequisite: B average in AC English 3 and/or teacher recommendation
Fees: Paperback texts. A. P. examination required.
 Summer reading required

Course Description: While teaching those skills necessary to do well on the Advanced Placement English Literature and Composition Exam, AP refines the knowledge and skills for thinking and decision-making. This college level course examines a wide range of American, British and world literature and requires students to write analytical papers about their readings. The class refines skills in writing, research procedures and critical reading. Teachers use open inquiry and Socratic methods. Generally, AP develops those skills necessary for college and professional success. Students who receive a 4 or 5 on the AP Exam typically receive credit for both semesters of freshman college English. Depending on the college, students are receiving from 3 to 9 hours of English credit.

ENGLISH ELECTIVE PROGRAM

The English Elective Program is designed for those students who enjoy reading and writing. Due to the highly specialized nature and/or the more mature reading and writing levels of some courses, students should select carefully from the elective options.

Students should discuss their selections with their current English teacher so that they will choose appropriately.
