Crop Production Tropics:

Training for Crop Production in the Tropics University of Hawaii (Honolulu). College of Agriculture, 1948      Tropical and Subtropical Fruit Crops Debashis Mandal, Ursula Wermund, Lop Phavaphutanon, Regina Cronje, 2023-06-30 This new volume is a rich and comprehensive resource of the basic information and latest developments and research efforts on tropical and subtropical fruits It presents an extensive overview of crop production techniques processing marketing breeding efforts harvesting postharvest handling pest and disease management and more of banana citrus durian grapes guava jackfruit litchi mango and papaya      Climate, Soil and Crop Production in the Humid Tropics C. H. Williams, 1970      Guide for Field Crops in the Tropics and the Subtropics Samuel Cameron Litzenberger, 1974      Crop Production Tropics Lucie Press Saint, 1993-01-01      The Ecology of Tropical Food Crops M. J. T. Norman, C. J. Pearson, P. G. E. Searle, 1995-05-18 In tropical developing countries farmers tend to grow a wide range of crops in a small area for subsistence or sale To make full use of often limited resources a good understanding of how environmental conditions affect the characteristics and performance of these crops is essential This book considers the response of tropical food crops to environmental factors such as climate soil and farming system Three types of crop are considered cereals legumes and non cereal energy crops with individual chapters on the four most important crops in each group This material is set in context by introductory chapters on tropical farming systems tropical climates and tropical soils This new updated edition retains the successful formula of the first edition while placing additional emphasis on tropical environmental conservation It will serve the needs of advanced students of tropical agriculture as well as professionals engaged in research and extension work in tropical crop production      Micronutrients in Tropical Food Crop Production Paul L.G. Vlek, 2012-12-06 The mission of the International Fertilizer Development Center is to increase food production through the improvement of fertilizers and fertilizer practices for the developing countries with special emphasis on tropical and subtropical agriculture The principal aim is to ensure that fertilizer technology is not a limiting factor to food production in those regions Although the full extent to which deficiency of micronutrients hampers food production is yet un known there is ample evidence that problem areas exist and more will be identified as crop production is intensified and marginal lands are exploited Therefore it seems fully appropriate at this time that IFDC as an international organization take a leadership role in developing micronutrient fertilizer technology appropriate for the tropics and subtropics The gravity of micronutrient deficiency as a limiting factor to crop production varies from crop to crop and from soil to soil The effects may range from slight yield reductions to complete crop failure While the economic impact of omitting micronutrients in seriously affected areas e g Zn in Brazilian Cerrado is convincing it is difficult to estimate the yearly loss in crop production due to unsuspected micronutrient deficiency Active soil and crop testing programs in regions with advanced agricultural systems are aimed at recognizing micronutrients as a limiting plant nutrient in time to allow corrective measures and prevent yield loss Successful micronutrient monitoring systems are generally limited to developed economies or to developing economies producing export cash crops

Climate, Soil and Crop Production in the Humid Tropics C.N. Williams, 1976 The humid tropical climate Moisture use in the tropics Light use in tropical crops Temperature limitations to growth and production of tropical crops Photoperiod and flowering in the tropics Tropical soils organic matter and soil fertility The rice soil environment Introduction to Tropical Agriculture Anthony Youdeowei, F. O. C. Ezedinma, Ochapa C. Onazi, 1986 The main features of this book are Sixteen chapters written by twenty of Nigeria's top agriculturalists give a comprehensive coverage of all aspects of agricultural science and management Extensively illustrated Each chapter contains a glossary and a guide to further reading Practical exercises and revision questions included Crop Production Technologies Peeyush Sharma, Vikas Abrol, 2012-01-05 Crop production depends on the successful implementation of the soil water and nutrient management technologies Food production by the year 2020 needs to be increased by 50 percent more than the present levels to satisfy the needs of around 8 billion people Much of the increase would have to come from intensification of agricultural production Importance of wise usage of water nutrient management and tillage in the agricultural sector for sustaining agricultural growth and slowing down environmental degradation calls for urgent attention of researchers planners and policy makers Crop models enable researchers to promptly speculate on the long term consequences of changes in agricultural practices In addition cropping systems under different conditions are making it possible to identify the adaptations required to respond to changes This book adopts an interdisciplinary approach and contributes to this new vision Leading authors analyze topics related to crop production technologies The efforts have been made to keep the language as simple as possible keeping in mind the readers of different language origins The emphasis has been on general descriptions and principles of each topic technical details original research work and modeling aspects However the comprehensive journal references in each area should enable the reader to pursue further studies of special interest The subject has been presented through fifteen chapters to clearly specify different topics for convenience of the readers Soil Compaction in Crop Production B.D. Soane, C. van Ouwkerk, 2013-10-22 This book provides a global review of the mechanisms incidence and control measures related to the problems of soil compaction in agriculture forestry and other cropping systems Among the disciplines which relate to this subject are soil physics soil mechanics vehicle mechanics agricultural engineering plant physiology agronomy pedology climatology and economics The volume will be of great value to soil scientists agricultural engineers and all those involved with irrigation drainage and tillage It will help to facilitate the exchange of information on current work throughout the world as well as to promote scientific understanding and stimulate the development evaluation and adoption of practical solutions to these widespread and urgent problems
